

WebAx

Accelerate your internet connection up to 3 times faster

The WebAx is a web compression and acceleration software for Internet Service Providers (ISPs) who want to speed up the dial-up connections of their subscribers. on the same bandwidth. It reduces the transfer volume of static and dynamically generated web sites and files down to a fraction of the original size and proportionally speeds up the load time performance. On average, the WebAx provides 200% more capacity and makes a TCP/IP connection 5 times faster. This is achieved by employing a combination of advanced technologies, such as real-time content compression, this results in a better Internet experience for the web site visitors and in reduced traffic costs for ISP and higher speed for users.

- Faster load times and less bandwidth consumption.
- Ideal to dialup, ADSL and satellite connections.
- Bi-directional TCP/IP compression for all kinds of applications.
